European University of Regions and Territories for Lifelong Learning

BUILDING ONE'S PATHWAY IN TOMORROW'S SOCIETY

Jagiellonian University, Krakow –Malopolska, 22-23 September 2016

The European labor market is now facing new dynamics resulting from the digital revolution and the rise of collaborative economy. New forms of work and employment appear and are disrupting professional pathways.

The fact that people will not stay in the same job during their entire professional career is now admitted. So far, the management of transitions between phases of employment, independent work, unemployment, or training (phases which can also be superimposed) is still to be improved to make it more efficient.

In an Information Note, "Preventing skills obsolescence", CEDEFOP insists on this dimension, which, given the fact that digital upheaval leads to the automation of a number of jobs, emphasizes the role and place of lifelong learning. In the same time, the pervasion of digital technologies requires and enables the acquisition of new skills both in a formal and informal way, contributes to enhancing employability of individuals outside of academic training circuits and leads to reconsider the place of lifelong learning.

In this context, the notion of accompanying people in the evolution of what might be called their "Journey to Work" is crucial. The paths are multiple and "paving the way" is a novel difficulty in an already complex process of accompaniment. The number of structures, the multiplicity and diversity of services and of target audiences raise the question of the people resources and processes to make the "Journey to Work" fruitful and offer a greater accessibility to individuals and thus give birth to social innovation.

The 14th session of the Freref European University of Regions and Territories will question the relationship between lifelong learning and these new dynamics at work, especially around the digital issues.

Digital innovation of the Year !

In order to prepare and support the work of the EURT 2016, Freref proposes to adopt an innovative approach to nurture the University. In collaboration with the Lab'Afev website, we will collect, before the event, the thoughts, reflections, practices, ideas of key witnesses. They will be posted on a dedicated platform, then powered by cross-reflections and cross-contributions, in order to feed the workshops: <http://www.lab-afev.org/les-debats-du-lab/freref/>

11.00 Forum on Mobility and Apprenticeship : the digital upheaval impact

Recruiters clearly state that transversal skills are positive assets to get jobs and that mobility is a key element to develop these skills. However, European mobility is too often synonymous of Higher Education mobility and seems to ignore other categories such as young in vocational training and apprentices.

The forum on mobility is a place for young people, Agencies in charge of the Erasmus+ program and all participants to share, discuss and propose innovative ways of developing mobility for all categories of learners.

15.30 Workshops : 1st session

Based on concrete experiences of cooperation between stakeholders involved in LLL on territories, the workshops of EURT (European University of Regions and Territories) foster and encourage discussion and sharing in smaller groups.

Back to the central theme of the relationship between "Lifelong learning and digital" three themes were selected and a call for contribution is now opened.

LLL and the Digital Upheaval: which impacts on the organization of work, employment and regional performance?

The first workshop will highlight the links between on the one hand the digital revolution, new forms of collaborative and social economy and on the other hand the organization of work and employment on the territories.

LLL and the Digital Upheaval: how to recognize, promote, support non-formal learning?

The second workshop aims at bringing the reflection on the role of non-formal and informal learning to foster new professional opportunities which are fueled by the digital upheaval.

LLL and the Digital Upheaval: how to support change in professional pathways to take an active part in tomorrow's society?

This workshop highlights the importance of figuring out how to develop the integration of supporting means, resources and processes throughout paths of employment (before, during and after).
